When you imagine a scientist, you will probably imagine someone in a lab coat with a test tube. When you imagine an anthropologist, what you think of might involve a trilby hat and a jungle. But what happens when you imagine a philosopher? Maybe a pipe and an armchair are involved; with a character more concerned with confusing abstract ideas than with real life? No! Philosophers are in actual fact quite the opposite, dealing with questions that tackle contemporary issues that affect us all, for example: questions of freedom, democracy, new technology, and the very nature of identity. These are all crucial to understanding humanity’s place in the world. Come along for an evening with a philosopher; of thinking differently and finding out why philosophy matters.

Lecture includes complimentary tea and coffee.

Please note:

We need to ensure that all of our learners are able to leave the building safely in the event of a fire or other emergency. We understand that many disabled people, or those with a temporary condition, will be fully able to leave the building unaided; however, some may require assistance. Therefore, we need to ask whether you would like us to complete an individual Personal Emergency Evacuation Plan for you. This is to ensure that you can leave the building safely in the event of an emergency. If you need a plan, please contact us on 0345 603 7635 or lifelong.learning@essex.gov.uk. A member of ACL staff will then get in contact with you to explore all of the safety options available. This is so that you can decide which options you would wish to have included in your plan in the event of an evacuation.

Description

When you imagine a scientist, you will probably imagine someone in a lab coat with a test tube. When you imagine an anthropologist, what you think of might involve a trilby hat and a jungle. But what happens when you imagine a philosopher? Maybe a pipe and an armchair are involved; with a character more concerned with confusing abstract ideas than with real life? No! Philosophers are in actual fact quite the opposite, dealing with questions that tackle contemporary issues that affect us all, for example: questions of freedom, democracy, new technology, and the very nature of identity. These are all crucial to understanding humanity’s place in the world. Come along for an evening with a philosopher; of thinking differently and finding out why philosophy matters.

Lecture includes complimentary tea and coffee.

Please note:

We need to ensure that all of our learners are able to leave the building safely in the event of a fire or other emergency. We understand that many disabled people, or those with a temporary condition, will be fully able to leave the building unaided; however, some may require assistance. Therefore, we need to ask whether you would like us to complete an individual Personal Emergency Evacuation Plan for you. This is to ensure that you can leave the building safely in the event of an emergency. If you need a plan, please contact us on 0345 603 7635 or lifelong.learning@essex.gov.uk. A member of ACL staff will then get in contact with you to explore all of the safety options available. This is so that you can decide which options you would wish to have included in your plan in the event of an evacuation.

What Qualification/level is this course?

This course does not lead to a qualification and is for personal development.

Who is the course for?

Anyone interested in the subject
When you imagine a scientist, you will probably imagine someone in a lab coat with a test tube. When you imagine an anthropologist, what you think of might involve a trilby hat and a jungle. But what happens when you imagine a philosopher? Maybe a pipe and an armchair are involved; with a character more concerned with confusing abstract ideas than with real life? No! Philosophers are in actual fact quite the opposite, dealing with questions that tackle contemporary issues that affect us all, for example: questions of freedom, democracy, new technology, and the very nature of identity. These are all crucial to understanding humanity’s place in the world. Come along for an evening with a philosopher; of thinking differently and finding out why philosophy matters.

What can I expect to learn?

Lecture

How will I learn?

How will I know how well I am doing?

Will I have to do any work at home?

What will I need to provide?

Are there any other costs?

What can I do next?

Your tutor will be pleased to discuss other courses that might assist your progression in this subject. For information on ACL courses please see http://www.aclessex.com

The National Careers Service provides information, advice and guidance to help you make decisions on learning, training and work. The service offers confidential and impartial advice and is supported by qualified careers advisers. To make an appointment please call 0800 100 900 (calls are free from landlines and most mobile numbers) or visit their website https://nationalcareersservice.direct.gov.uk

Further information

For all enquiries regarding this course please contact 0345 603 7635.